

McCreary Defeats O'Rear by 35,000 Votes

Democratic Landslide
Throughout Entire State
Majority Will Probably Reach 50,000.

TENTH DISTRICT HAS PROBABLY GONE DEMOCRATIC.

The People of Kentucky Have Shown By Their Right of Suffrage That They Are Tired of Republican Rule and the Grand Old Commonwealth is Once More Safely Within the Democratic Fold.

EVERY DISTRICT SHOWS LARGE DEMOCRATIC GAINS.

Montgomery County Goes Democratic By 430, the Largest Majority in a State Election in a Score of Years.

CRAIG DEFEATS LEDFORD FOR REPRESENTATIVE BY OVER 700.

FITZPATRICK DEFEATS JONES FOR CITY ASSESSOR BY 348.

The Democrats of Kentucky by their vote of yesterday have demonstrated to the nation that our people are tired of Republican rule and are willing to place our State's affairs in the hands of Jeffersonian Democracy.

The entire State, from East to West, from North to South, showed immense Democratic gains.

In Louisville the Democratic ticket won by between 5,000 and 6,000.

In Lexington the State race was very close. Ernest Cassidy won the Mayor's race with the rest of the city ticket in doubt. Thomas A. Combs seems to have lost in the race for Senator, although the contest is very close and later returns may show Combs the winner.

From the telegraphic reports received by this office up until a late hour last night and from telephone messages direct from Democratic headquarters show that the principles advocated by the Democratic party were the principles of the people, and this election is only a forerunner of the great national victory that is coming to our party in 1912. The election of a Democratic Legislature (both houses) insures that big brainy Kentuckian, Ollie James, a seat in the United States Senate. The slogan of our party now should be "ON TO WASHINGTON." This glorious victory has shown us our strength, so let us not waste our time but every good party worker keep busy and next year the victory will be ours.

The following city officers were elected without opposition: Councilmen, G. D. Sullivan, Jas. McDonald, J. Will Clay, H. G. Enoch, C. B. Stephens, W. R. McKee, Henry Botts and Sanford Jouett; for City Attorney, W. C. Hamilton; for City Clerk, H. M. Ringo, and for Chief of Police, John Gibbons. Keller Greene was elected County Court Clerk without opposition, and the remainder of the State ticket ran close to the respective candidate for Governor.

Much credit is due Campaign Chairman W. B. White and his splendid Campaign Committee for the excellent showing made in Montgomery county. It will be remembered that Judge O'Rear, during his long political career, has never before failed to carry this, his home county, and the decisive majority given Governor McCreary (which is the largest given any candidate for Governor for many years) is the result of hard work upon the part of Chairman White and many other loyal Democrats, who for weeks have been perfecting a thorough organization in every precinct in the county.

MRS. WEBBIE CHORN
VICTIM OF PARALYSIS

Monday Morning at 1 O'clock--- Was One of This City's Wealthiest and Most Beloved Women.

Mrs. Mary Webb Chorn passed to her reward from her home, 210 North Maysville street, Monday morning, Nov. 6, 1911, at 1 o'clock after a lingering attack from paralysis.

Funeral service was conducted at her late home Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock by her pastor, Rev. Richard French, of Winchester, Ky., and burial took place in Macpelah cemetery.

Mrs. Chorn was Miss Mary Webb Branham, of Bourbon county, and was married to Mr. James Chorn, of this city, May, 1864, and resided at his country home until 1882, when they removed to the present home. Mr. Chorn preceeding her to his reward Aug. 24, 1888. Mrs. Chorn was 68 years old the 27th day of last May. She was a woman of distinct individuality, of attainments, had lived not for self, but for the betterment of those with whom she came in contact.

Correct in business relations, she esteemed the honorable, pitied the erring and loved justice.

Her church relations were with the Lulbegrud Baptist church, and when it merged with the Mt. Sterling church she became a member here and after the death of Mr. Chorn removed her membership to the Ephesus Baptist church, Clark county, thinking she could better serve her Master there.

Her home, her library, her associates, her deeds of love and correct living serve as a eulogy far surpassing in appropriateness any thoughts clothed in rhetoric words.

"To know, to esteem, to love, and then to part. Makes up life's tale to many a feeling heart."

Big Dinner.

The ladies of the Christian church of Jeffersonville will give a big dinner at that place Saturday, Nov. 18, for the benefit of the church. Everybody is invited and urged to come and help in this good cause. 18-2t Taxpayers.

Your county and State taxes are now due. Pay them before the penalty goes on. 164 W. F. Crooks, Sheriff.

Raise in Diamonds.

The diamond syndicate, the most complete and arrogant syndicate now in existence, has just notified the buyers of diamonds by the wholesale of a raise of about $17.50 per carat on diamonds. This raise, when added to the duty, interest, wholesale and retail profit, will make the raise to the buying public about $37.50 per carat. Not satisfied with such an increase, the syndicate has also reduced the quality of the stones by taking the top grade out entirely and raising the next lower grade to first position and so on down the line and making also the same rate raise in all stones. A few years ago the average output of diamonds was 65% perfect today the average output of perfect stones is less than 20%. The Saturday Evening Post about a year ago published an interesting article on the Jewel market, showing that diamonds had actually increased 175% in ten years. Prices are still to be increased, the syndicate having ruled to increase the price a certain per cent every year for the next twenty years. We have interviewed Mr. J. W. Jones, one of the jewelers of this city, and he has informed us that he has a large stock of diamonds on hand. He will not raise the price at the present, so if you are contemplating buying diamonds now is the time.

The Mobilization Review.

Practically the entire American navy is now mobilized. The Pacific fleet has assembled at Los Angeles and the Atlantic forces have steamed down the North River, reviewed by the Secretary of the Navy. Over a hundred vessels were in the review. Six dreadnoughts and eighteen battle-ships formed the main force; two of the big armored cruisers, plus types of the cruiser class, the new destroyer flotilla, and the old and more or less outworn torpedo boats made up the column of which the auxiliaries formed the rear. To the onlookers who lined the banks of the Hudson this armada appeared all-impressive. In fact, however, the fleet was not homogeneous. It was a medley of types. Many of the ships were not modern, and some, like the Indiana and Iowa class, have almost outlived their usefulness. Our dreadnoughts (and nothing else counts today) are too few in number. The United States will in 1914 have twelve of this type to Germany's twenty-one. We have not sufficient destroyers properly to guard the fleet and act as a screen against torpedo attacks. Nor are the present auxiliaries, like colliers and ammunition and repair ships, strong in numbers. The fleet which Secretary Meyer reviewed, seemingly so impressive, could not be maintained at sea for a long period, as there are not enough vessels to carry the coal. There is only one tank ship for the oil fuel of the new destroyers, which, burning no coal, are helpless without oil. And all of these are important parts of a "fleet in being." Our enlisted personnel is not large enough to man the ships built or building. Secretaries of the Navy have repeatedly pointed out that the officers in the higher grades are too old for their rank in comparison with other navies, and that the present method of promotion is unsatisfactory. The recent reorganization of the Navy Department has not yet been made permanent by law, although conducive to efficiency, and public moneys are still wasted on navy yards which are unnecessary to the upkeep of the fleet. The burden of all this is not on the navy. The responsibility lies with Congress.

Whatever it may lack in material, however, the fleet itself is highly efficient. Never has the spirit of the personnel been higher. Ten years ago our ships could not hit a barn. Today our target practice is as good as that of any of the great navies, and in engine-room efficiency we are ahead of the world. This was proved by the "railroad" schedule made by the fleet on its world cruise.

History is repeatedly pointing out the value of sea power. Russia lost Manchuria because of no navy. Austria grabbed Bosnia and Herzegovina without a shadow of diplomatic right and with the connivance of the great powers. The Italian flag is now over Tripoli, and Turkey's well-trained army remains inactive at home because Italy holds the command of the Mediterranean. The "Hamburger Nachrichten," one of the inspired organs of Germany, said recently: "The Monroe Doctrine is nothing but an affront to other nations." A powerful American fleet may in the future be needed to prevent South America from sharing the colonization and feudal position of northern Africa. It was in Africa that this country more than a hundred years ago paid dearly for the want of a ready fleet. Then the Bashaw of Tripoli levied tribute on American commerce until he was chastised by Decatur.

Stops Lameness

Sloan's Liniment is a reliable remedy for any kind of horse lameness. Will kill the growth of spavin, curb or splint, absorb enlargements, and is excellent for swellings, fistula and thrush.

Here's Proof.

"I used Sloan's Liniment on a mule for 'high lameness,' and cured her. I am never without a bottle of your liniment, have bought more of it than any other remedy for lameness." EARLY KIRBY, Casey, Ky.

"Sloan's Liniment is the best made. I have removed very large shoe boils off a horse with it. I have killed a quarter crack on a mare that was swaying back. I have also healed raw sores on a horse's legs. I have healed great heat on a mare that was badly swollen." ANTHONY G. HINES, Oakland, Pa., Route No. 1.

"My legs had long chafers three days before we got your liniment, when I was advised to try it. I used it now for three days and my legs are almost well. One leg died before I got the liniment, but I have not any more." A. J. McCARTHY, Danville, Ind.

Baseball Poetry.

Baseball is ordinarily described in prose, so that there is not yet any anthology of the sport. When it is made "Casey at the Bat" will, of course, have a place. Also "At the Ball Game," which readers of Eugene and Roswell Martin Field's "Echoes from the Sabine Farm" do not forget. When the Field brothers essayed their mock-heroics, a different set of athletes fought it out. Thus appeared Ryan, Anson, Comiskey, Mike Kelly and Clarkson:

Now steps Hyacinth forth at call of furious Mars, And from his oaken staff the sphere speeds to the stars; And now he gains the tertiary goal, and turns, While whiskered balls play round the timid staff of Mars.

Lo! from the tribunes on the bleachers comes a shout, Beseeching hold Ansonius to line 'em out; And as Apollo's flying chariot cleaves the sky, So stanch Ansonius lifts the frightened ball on high.

Like roar of ocean beating on the Cretan cliff, The strong Komiske gives the jangling sphere a lift; And from the tribunes rise loud murmurs everywhere, While twice and thrice Mikellus beats the mocking air.

So waxes fierce the strife between these god-like men; And as the hero's fame grows by Virgilian pen, So let Clarksonus Maximus be raised to heights As far above the moon as moon o'er lesser lights.

Clarkson and his companions are not forgotten today, although a new generation sits on the bench and mainly on the bleachers, and although Clarkson's eminence has been equaled or surpassed by that of Mathewson, the new heroes also have their poets, like Lampton and Kirke, and we run small risk in prophesying that sometime the baseball anthology will be a fact. Whoever publishes it may put us down for copy number one.—Collier's.

BRITISH WOMEN AS PIONEERS

Dr. Ethel Smyth Has Opera Produced and Orchestra Contains Several Feminine Performers.

For the first time in the history of English music women have been heard in first-class orchestra. Dr. Ethel Smyth, the first woman to have an opera produced in England, is the pioneer of this project, and introduced a woman flautist and percussionist, as well as a woman at the drum, into the orchestra, which interpreted her varied and magnificent harmonies at a recent matinee at a London theater. Hitherto a woman harpist is the only feminine figure which has appeared in first-class orchestra, the harp being what Dr. Smyth describes as "an eminently ladylike instrument." She claims that women can look very pretty playing wind instruments, and that their femininity need not have any effect on the volume of sound they produce. The amount of noise is not a result necessarily of physique, but rather of intensity of feeling; this is Dr. Smyth's contention and in intensity it cannot be said the women are lacking. The songs in which these ladies were tested were extremely difficult and very modern, and have hitherto taxed the capacity of the first-class male performer to the utmost, but they stood the test admirably, and there seems no good reason why in future the symphony orchestra and its prototypes should not have the dull monotony of its black-coated music masters relieved by feminine frills.

HE WAS WISE.

SURE CURE FOR SNORING.

To the snorers who ask for the cure let the cause be announced. Snoring is the result of stomachic repletion and mental vacuity. A correspondent who has suffered from both prescribes the cure. A light supper—or none—to avoid repletion, and the frequent repetition of some literary phrase to provide occupation for the mind during sleeping hours. Go to bed fasting and think of some short literary phrase to occupy your mind. The combination of the two prescriptions against snoring—the abstention from food and the meditation upon the literary phrase—may be found in Ecclesiasticus—the ninetieth verse of the thirty-first chapter: "How sufficient to a well-mannered man is a very little, and he doth not breathe hard upon his bed."

IKU'S DEPARTURE.

The departure of the arch-criminal Iku from Peking to exile is described as rivaling in splendor that of the most distinguished envoy to foreign parts. All the unoccupied great ones of Peking "saw him off," he took four cooks and twenty servants with him, and left behind with each servant's family a solatium of fifty ounces; moreover each servant had to "sign on" and secure "bail" for good behavior. "It pays to be a traitor."—Westminster Gazette.

HABIT.

"There's no use talking," said Mr. Dustin Stax; "this corporation of ours will have to dissolve." "How will you go about it?" "I don't know. The only way I know of to dissolve things is to keep putting water into them."

CALCULATIONS.

"Thank heaven air is still free," said the gloomy person. "Yes," replied Mr. Chuggins. "But an automobile tire to surround a small section of it costs a heap."

Choice Beef A Luxury.

Wholesalers are marking the price of corn-finished beef a notch higher every week. An article that was superabundant a few months back is becoming rare. Choice bullocks are quotable to $8.75 this week, and cattle equally good sold at $6.25 to $6.50 early in the summer. Revulsion of sentiment is the principal factor in current scarcity. Market prediction of a $9 trade in such steers elicits no contradiction, and the show sale at the International may be pyrotechnic, unless too many are held back for that event.

Promptly the wail of the distributor is heard. No. 1 ribs have advanced to 17c., and loins to 21c.; and the retailer, in an effort to justify his stereotyped margin, is eloquent on the subject of scarcity. But when the same grades of beef were selling at bargain rates in the packers' coolers last winter and through the first half of the summer, consumers derived no benefit. A rule that does not work both ways is a poor one.

Beef is not the only illustration of this faulty system of distribution. A year ago the common retail price of apples in Chicago was 50c. a peck; today about the same sale tickets are used by market-men, but apples have practically no commercial value in orchards located less than 50 miles distant. Bacon costs almost as much now with light hogs on a $6.25 basis as when $9 or more was the stock-yards price.

When the current run of grassers wanes, and it is tapering off weekly, retailers will find themselves at the end of their rainbow. Any attempt on their part to maintain the profits possible during the recent period of plenty without arousing the ire of consumers, will merely aggravate the case

BUT BOOKS LIVE ON.

Many a man lives a burden to the earth; but a good book is the precious life blood of a master spirit, embalmed and treasured up on purpose to a life beyond life. It is true no age can restore a life whereof, perhaps, there is no great loss, and revolutions of ages do not oft recover the loss of a rejected truth, for the want of which whole nations fare the worse. We should be wary, therefore, what persecution we raise against the living labors of public men, how we spill that seasoned life of man, preserved and stored up in books, since we see a kind of homicide may be thus committed, sometimes a martyrdom, and, if it extend to the whole impression, a kind of massacre, whereof the execution ends not in the slaying of an elemental life, but strikes at the ethereal and fifth essence, the breath of reason itself slays an immortality rather than a life.—Milton, Areopagitica.

After a man has once been important, and loses it, he is never really modest again. He can't forget the days when he was "somebody."

CATCHING THE CROWD EASY

Test of Public Man's Success, However, Is to Hold People's Respect and Confidence.

The test of a public man's success with the people is his ability to hold their respect and confidence, not simply to catch the crowd. A man may be severely criticised for some individual act, but no single act is to form the basis of popular judgment. The man who wears with the people is the man worth while, the man who serves the people best and whose public words and deeds will bear the scrutiny of time. It is no indictment of a man's sincerity or quality of intellect for him to possess the knack of catching the fancy of those to whom he speaks, whether from the rostrum or through the press. Indeed, that is very necessary accomplishment these days. But it is an indictment of him when he seeks no more than to gain superficial popular approval for purely selfish ends.

The people may be taken off their feet for the moment by an apt phrase, but they cannot be kept off their feet by one. They may applaud the eloquence of a demagogue at first, but they will after a while find him out and reject him. The people are ultimately correct in the application of their own test. They often act by impulse and with error, but they always come back finally to a sober judgment, and then comes the reckoning for those who have played upon their credulity.

THEY PRODUCE HEAT.

REMEDY FOR MOTHS.

Air the bedclothes thoroughly, fold the blankets in paper and scatter freely among the folds hemlock or arbor vitae sprigs, dry sweet flags, lavender or sachet powder. These are equally as effective as moth balls and give the bed clothes an agreeable odor. Paste the ends of the paper together and paste wrapping paper over the top of the case in such a way so as to leave no cracks through which moths can find entrance. Place these in a large packing box which has been lined with heavy wrapping paper and then nail down the lid.—Woman's National Weekly.

TO KEEP BUTTER COOL.

A convenient and easy way to keep butter cool is by applying the principle of cooling by evaporation, as used in the wet bulb of the wet and dry bulb hygrometer. The butter is placed in a closed receptacle (butter dish with lid), and after this has been placed in a soup plate containing water a wet cloth is put over the dish with its ends in the water. Evaporation goes on at the surface of the cloth, and more water is supplied to the cloth from the place below. This keeps the cloth and dish inside at a few degrees below the atmospheric temperature, and by this means butter can be kept firm in the hottest days.

A TECHNICAL MIND.

"What in the name of common sense are you arresting me for?" asked the motorist who had accidentally violated a regulation.

"I ain't arrestin' you in the name of common sense," replied the rustic sheriff. "I'm arrestin' you in the name of the law."

TERRA INCOGNITA.

"Why do you say Jiblots in a profoundly learned man?"

"Because he knows what is in the back of the dictionary."

RETURN TO YOUR LABORS.

Let's forget the bitterness of yesterday and take up again the responsibilities of citizenship. The election is over—we are glad that it is—and the sooner we return to our several vocations, the better off we will be.

The recent registration should encourage our public-spirited citizens, as it showed Mt. Sterling had 1022 voters and this number does not include at least fifty others who were absent from home or sick. This is a gain of nearly 100 voters or 500 in population in one year. Houses are being erected everywhere and prosperity is abundant. This is due, very largely, we think, to the installation of a sanitary sewer system and brick streets.

We are informed a majority of the property-owners on High street, from Maysville to Queen, have petitioned the Council to order it bricked. A similar petition, we are told, is being circulated on West Main street and others are likely to follow.

What everybody should do, irrespective of politics, is to pull together for the upbuilding of our city. Let's make it an inviting place in which to live. Don't let a few knockers stand in the way of progress. If they had had their way, we would never have had electric lights, water works, natural gas, sewers, brick streets or any other conveniences. Remember all we get out of life after all is a few comforts as we go along.

At least a mile more brick streets and two miles more of new pavements, should be built next year. If this is done and our citizens work in harmony, we are optimistic enough to prophesy that Mt. Sterling will have not less than 8,000 population in 1915.

W. M. BRIDGFORTH VICTIM OF APOPLEXY

Was One of Montgomery County's Most Prominent and Best Beloved Citizens.

On last Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, after a brief illness, the spirit of Mr. W. M. Bridgforth passed from its tenement of clay upward to Him who gave it.

Mr. Bridgforth's condition, while serious, was not considered critical, and the end was sudden and shocking. The family had gone to church, leaving him with his son, L. L. Bridgforth, who was reaching him, when, without a warning, the end came.

Mr. Bridgforth, the last of thirteen children to pass away, was born May 10th, 1837, in Mechenberg county, Virginia, and at the age of seven years removed to Holmes county, Mississippi.

He was educated at the Georgetown Baptist College, and it was there he met Miss Nannie Chenault, whom he married November 13th, 1859. They went to live on his then beautiful Southern plantation which soon after was desolated at the hands of an invading Northern army. Mr. Bridgforth enlisted to fight in the battles of the South for the protection of home, wife and property. Returning after the surrender he brought his wife and one son, Lucien, having buried one son, James, in Southern soil, to Kentucky, where he honored and admired he spent the remainder of his days, the greater part as a farmer, a success in live stock and in agricultural departments, the past few years residing at his beautiful home, 156 North Maysville street, in this city.

He was a member and trustee of the Mt. Sterling Baptist Church, faithful in the discharge of the duties imposed on him. Funeral services were conducted at his late residence by his pastor, Rev. Geo. Kennard, and remains were interred in Machpelah Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife and five children: Lucien L., of this city; Mrs. James McClymonds, of California; Mrs. John T. Gay, of Woodford county; Mrs. Robert Howell and R. M. Bridgforth, of this county, William and an infant joining the hosts beyond.

Mr. Bridgforth was a character to be admired in his daily walks, a man who will be greatly missed as father, husband and citizen.

"Friend after friend departs:
Who hath not lost a friend?
There is here no union of hearts
That finds not here an end:
Were this frail world our final rest,
Living or dying none were blest.

There is a world above,
Where parting is unknown:
A long eternity of love
Formed for the good alone:
And faith beholds the dying here
Translated to that glorious sphere.

Thus star by star declines,
Till all are passed away:
As morning high and hither shines
To pure and perfect day:
Nor sink these stars in empty night,
But hide themselves in heaven's own light."

JAMES F. HOOD DIES AT RIPE OLD AGE

Was a Deacon in the Mt. Sterling Baptist Church, But Made His Home at Willard, Ky.

Mr. James F. Hood, brother of the late William Hood, of this county, and of General John B. Hood of the Southern Confederacy, died at the home of his son, Asa Hood, in Willard, Carter county, on last Wednesday, the 1st of November, 1911, in the ninetyeth year of his age. His remains were brought here on Thursday, and after services at the grave, conducted by Dr. George Kennard, was buried in Machpelah cemetery.

Mr. Hood was the Senior Deacon in the Mt. Sterling Baptist church of which church he had been a member for many years.

After his conversion and union with the church he was busy until the day of his death pointing out the way to those in darkness, the one used of the spirit in pointing out to them the light. He is survived by two children, Asa Hood, of Willard, Ky., and Mrs. Jennie V. Istead, Tacoma, Wash., and two nieces here, Mrs. Leah Reese and Mrs. Roger Gatewood.

Mr. Hood was a man of unusual bright mind, a fine historian and logical in his reasoning.

It was through him many of the richest finds were made that have made many persons rich, and some years prior to his death he discovered the richest of all his finds, and it was his greatest desire to live to put this find before the people. Though having lived and served to a ripe and honorable old age he will be greatly missed.

"How blest the righteous when he dies:
When sinks a weary soul to rest,
How mildly beams the closing eyes:
How gently leaves the expiring breast:
So fades a summer cloud away;
So sinks the gale when storms are o'er;
So gently shuts the eye of day;
So dies a wave along the shore.

A holy quiet reigns around,
A calm which life nor death destroys,
And naught disturbs the peace profound
Which his unfettered soul enjoys.

Life's labor done, as sinks the clay,
Light from its load the spirit flies,
While heaven and earth combine to say,
How blest the righteous when he dies.

BEAUTIFUL WEDDING

Miss Eula Perry Becomes Bride of Mr. N. T. McKee at Sleepy Hill, the Handsome Country Home of Her Parents.

In the presence of only the immediate family and a few intimate friends last Tuesday evening at seven o'clock Miss Eula Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Perry, of this county, became the bride of Mr. Neal Trimble McKee, eldest son of Judge H. Clay McKee. The wedding was the happy culmination of a courtship that began when both young people were students at Lexington College. Miss Elizabeth Perry was the only attendant.

Mrs. Charles W. Kirkpatrick presided at the piano and Rev. H. D. Clark was the officiating minister. The whole lower floor of the handsome old country home, "Sleepy Hill," was beautifully decorated with smilax, autumn leaves and chrysanthemums and presented a most pleasing aspect. The bride was dressed in white satin with the conventional orange blossoms and veil.

The young couple left on the 9:46 C. & O. train for the east and after visiting several cities will make their home in New York, where Mr. McKee has lately located.

After the ceremony delicious sandwiches and frappe were served by Miss Martha Simrall, who presided at the frappe table.

Miss Perry is one of Montgomery county's most charming and popular daughters and will be sadly missed in the social circles, where she has ever been a favorite.

Mr. McKee is a splendid moral young man and his eminent business qualifications, as well as genial manner, has made for him a host of friends.

The Advocate joins their many friends in wishing them all the happiness that life has in store for those who so richly deserve it.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Miss Mary Smith was hostess at a beautiful euchre at her home on Sycamore street last Wednesday. About forty guests enjoyed Miss Smith's hospitality. At the conclusion of the interesting games a delightful course luncheon was served.

One of the most charming social events of the season was the elaborate euchre given last Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Charles W. Nesbitt and Mrs. Amanda T. Howell at the lovely home of Mrs. Nesbitt, on the corner of Sycamore and High streets. The entire lower floor of the spacious home was lovely in its decorations of plants and flowers, the color scheme of yellow and red being carried out in the most artistic and beautiful manner. After the interesting games, which were enjoyed by nearly a hundred guests, a most delicious luncheon of several courses was served. The occasion was pronounced one of the most delightful of the season. Those who attended from a distance were: Mrs. Vernon Mastin, of Versailles; Mrs. Charles Clark, Mrs. Lawrence Mitchell, of North Middletown; Miss Leila Scoggin, Louisville; Mr. L. B. Cockrell, of Winchester; Miss Helen Tash, of Chicago; Mrs. Perry Allen, of Independence, Mo., and Mrs. Esie Goodpaster, of Owingsville.

Banquet.

Possibly the most elegant banquet served in this city for many years was enjoyed last Thursday night at Ringo's Cafe by several members of the younger society set. The spacious dining room was beautifully decorated in autumn leaves and cut flowers, while a large shock of foder in one corner served as a screen for the musicians, on the posts separating the dining room from the main room there were large pumpkins cut into jack-o-lantern faces. These, added to the other Halloween decorations, made the room a perfect autumn bower. A large round table, seating eight couples, was in the center of the room, while two small round tables for the chaperones were provided, all of which were tastefully decorated.

The banquet, which was served in eight courses, was most delightful in every respect, showing conclusively that those who planned and served same were past masters of the culinary art.

Before going to the banquet the young people attended the Tabb Opera House, where a special section had been reserved for them.

Among those present were Misses Elizabeth Perry, Vitulla Kingsolving, Winona Tipton, Emerald Judy, Allee Young, Margaret Looney, Emily Robinson, Nancy C. Owings and Catherine Greene; Messrs. Caldwell Clay, Tom Grubbs, Richard Apperson, Ermine French, Tipton Wilson, Gilbert Satterwhite, Stewart McCormick, Robert Nelson and Howell Reese.

The young people were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Senff.

Fence Damaged.

Recently Mrs. P. Meguire had her property on Lexington avenue enclosed by a wire fence. A dispute has arisen as to the correct location of her property line, many claiming her fence enclosed a portion of Lexington avenue or Winchester pike.

Monday night some unknown person or persons cut the fence in a number of places with wire pliers, doing considerable damage.

If apprehended, the guilty should be punished, as such conduct is a disgrace to our city.

If the fence is not properly located, the courts are open and any one feeling himself aggrieved, can and should have the matter settled in a legal way and not by resorting to violence.

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

If you saw a row of apples, everyone differing in size, ripeness and color, and all for sale at the same price, wouldn't you choose the best? Why not do the same thing when you buy fire insurance? The cost of insurance is substantially the same in all agencies, but what you get for your money varies as much as the apples in the row.

Choose then HOFFMAN'S INSURANCE AGENCY. For nearly Three Quarters of a Century it has paid every loss, big and little. Its reputation is unexcelled. It is the best fire insurance apple of them all, and its policies cost no more than those in agencies of inferior quality. Why not use the same judgment in buying insurance that you would in such a trivial matter as buying fruit at a fruit stand?

Justice to Heney.

The country has been talking for some weeks now about the radicalism of California. On October 10 the people of that State added many amendments to their constitution. They enabled the Legislature to require just weights and measures. They limited the number of bills that could be introduced and put conditions around the method of introducing. They gave to women the right to vote. They enabled the people to pass laws or amend the constitution independently of the Legislature, and with certain exceptions to repeal any measure passed by the Legislature. They forbade reversals by Appellate Courts in criminal cases unless it was shown that there had been miscarriage of justice. They provided for the recall of public officials including judges. They made possible an employers' liability system irrespective of fault on either side. They granted to cities power to establish, own, and operate public works for light, heat, power, telephone, and transportation. They provided that no change in textbooks necessitating the purchase of new books by pupils should be made oftener than once in four years. When Governor Johnson was elected, California took her stand as an emphatically progressive State, and she has been making that position more unmistakable ever since. To her citizens in general belongs the credit, but let us hope that the public remembers that but for the courage and persistence of Francis J. Heney the State would have been a longer time in reaching her proud position. Heney's health was injured, and his worldly prosperity diminished, by what he did, but the benefit is reaped by his fellow countrymen.

DON'T SAY YOU'RE OLD

You Only Feel Old

Digestive organs are weak—don't assimilate food as they used to. Other organs act more slowly and less effectively. Blood is thin and sluggish. Renewal of strength does not equal the wear and tear of your system. That's what makes you feel old. Nothing in the world will tone up and invigorate those weak, back-sliding organs, make rich blood and create strength so quickly as Vinol. Vinol is not a secret nostrum, simply the medicinal elements of the cods' livers, with the useless nauseating oil eliminated, and tonic iron added. Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not make you stronger, feel younger and give you an added interest in life. W. S. LLOYD, DRUGGIST, Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I willingly corroborate the public statement I gave in May, 1903, in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. I cannot fully describe how much benefit they brought me and doubt if I would be alive today were it not for them. You may continue to use my name and say that I am still in good health. Travel in Our Country.

For one hundred dollars, which includes a Pullman berth, the Easterner may be transported to Southern California, winter playground for the nation's grown-ups. There one may bathe in the open sea the year round. Avoiding high altitudes, if the traveler wish, he may go by way of New Orleans, life for a day in the atmosphere of old France, and drink the superb coffee a New Orleans chef can make. He may go by way of Albuquerque, and see Indian villages which are relics of a civilization with Columbus; he may visit old Santa Fe, a corner of America with the ancient coloring of the Orient. Or he may go by way of the home of the Mormons, wonderful in its distinctive type of modern civilization. The automobile, the aeroplane, the telephone, or the telegraph is scarcely a more remarkable illustration of human progress than this trip of four days in a Pullman, with almost every physical comfort to be had in a prosperous home. Fifty years ago it took a good part of a year, and invited many hardships and dangers, to cross those bitter pains in prairie schooners or to round the Horn in sailing ships.

Autumn.

Give a season a bad name and many good songs and exhortations will be required to restore it to grace. In spite of earnest and even eloquent appeals, the adjectives, "melancholy," "sad," and "wailing" stick to autumn's garments—burrlike. Pick them off; walk a step or two; and they're on again. James Whitcomb Riley has done service in this anti-burrl campaign. Some of the prose poets who made Concord famous have done their share. Here is Emerson's:

"There are days which occur in this climate, at almost any season of the year, wherein the world reaches its perfection; when the air, the heavenly bodies, and the earth make a harmony, as if Nature would indulge her offspring; when, in these bleak upper sides of the planet, nothing is to desire that we have heard of the happiest latitudes, and we bask in the shining hours of Florida and Cuba; when everything that has life gives signs of satisfaction, and the cattle that lie on the ground seem to have great and tranquil thoughts. These halcyon days may be looked for with a little more assurance in that pure October weather which we distinguish by the name of Indian summer. The day, immeasurably long, sleeps over the broad hills and warm wide fields. To have lived through all its sunny hours seems longevity enough."

Autumn has always happened to be a favorite season of ours, and we are therefore touchingly grateful when a great man is charitable enough to say a few kind words in its behalf.

No matter how tall, how short, how thin, or how fat she may be, the average woman thinks she has a pretty good figure.

CAUSES OF SLEEP EXPLAINED

Frenchman Says It Is Inherited Instinct to Protect Organism From Effects of Fatigue.

At the National Museum for Natural History in Paris M. R. Legendre lately delivered an extremely interesting lecture on "The Physiology of Sleep," which summarizes the latest researches on the subject. He admitted at the outset that it was impossible to give an exact definition of sleep, which was to be distinguished from narcosis, hypnosis and lethargy, and devoted himself chiefly to investigating the cause of sleep, of which many explanations have been suggested. He showed by fairly conclusive arguments that this could be neither brain pallor, nor intoxication by carbonic acid, nor the presence of narcotic substances in the blood, theories which have had in their turn greater or less success; and finally avowed his preference for the view of Prof. Claparede of Geneva that sleep is not the result of fatigue but an inherited instinct designed to protect the organism against the ill effects of fatigue. He pointed out, however, that an injection of the cerebro-spinal (cephalo-rachidian) fluid from an animal suffering from insomnia would produce the same malady in one otherwise healthy; and that experiments were now being made to determine the toxic substance present in the fluid in question. Some of these experiments seem to show that the effect of sleep is limited to the brain and nerves.—The Athenaeum.

LESSON IN HARMONY SCORED

A woman who prides herself on her instinct for producing effective and harmonious combinations of color was called upon to admire a doll's toilet which her small daughter had just completed. Dolly's outfit comprised all the primary colors. There were no softening mezzotints to rest the tired eye as it roved from red to orange, and then wandered on blinking to be confronted by purple and green. It was hard for the aesthetic parent to believe any child of hers had such crude ideas as to what constituted decorative effect, but there was the doll in all its luridness to prove the sad fact. Thereupon mother proceeded to talk long and earnestly (in words of one syllable) on harmony in general and harmonious color combinations in particular.

That the seed did not fall on barren soil was proved an hour later when the latest recruit to art called out: "Oh, mother, do come to the window and see this boy. He is a black boy, mother, and he's riding a black horse. That shows that he has good taste, doesn't it, to pick out a horse of the same color?"

WATER LILY FARM.

One of the beauty spots in Washington is the water lily farm conducted by a woman who as a clerk in the treasury department lost her health. Starting as an amateur cultivator, she has become one of the most prosperous producers of the flowers. She purchased a few acres on the Potomac and caused an artificial lake to be made on her land by piping in the water. She became fascinated with the work, and willingly gave up her government position so she could devote her attention to the flowers. Now she has ponds which cover five acres, in which she is raising the flowers, and many persons go to her garden at early hours of the morning to see the lilies in full bloom.

WHEN SCHUMANN WAS SORE.

An amusing story of Schumann is told by a Vienna critic. The composer once accompanied his wife, who was even then a celebrated pianist, to the palace, when she went to play before the king of Holland, and was gratified by the monarch's compliments of her performance. The composer was somewhat surprised, however, when the king turned to him and courteously inquired: "Are you also musical?" They say Schumann was so indignant that he didn't speak for an hour.

HABIT.

"How shall I a habit break?"
As you did that habit make.
As you gathered you must lose;
As you yielded, now refuse.
Thread by thread the strands we twist
Till they bind up neck and wrist;
Thread by thread the patient hand
Must untwine ere free we stand.
As we builded, stone by stone,
We must toil unhelped, alone,
Till the wall is overthrown.

But tomorrow, as we try,
Lighter every test goes by;
Wading in the stream grows deep
Toward the center's downward sweep;
Backward turn, each step ashore
Shallowed is than that before.
Ah, the precious years we waste
Leveling what we raised in haste;
Doing what must be undone,
Ere content or love be won!
First across the gulf be won!
Kite-borne threads till lines are passed
And habit builds the bridge at last!
—John Boyle O'Reilly.

PROPHET OF MIDDLE AGES

Michael Nostradamus Foretold Many Occurrences to Persons Then Unborn, Giving Their Names.

The greatest prophet of the middle ages was Michael Nostradamus, who flourished in the first half of the sixteenth century. He predicted occurrences to persons then unborn, and gave their names, and his predictions were fulfilled. He predicted the abdication of the Emperor Charles V., the death of Henri II., the murder of Henri III. He predicted that Louis XIII. would have a Montmorency executed "in an unusual place" by an executioner named Clerepeyne.
In 1632, exactly eighty years after the prophecy was printed, a Montmorency was executed on King Louis XIII's orders by a soldier named Clerepeyne in an "unusual place" (the closed court of Toulouse city hall). Neither Montmorency nor Clerepeyne was born at the time of the prediction. Nostradamus further predicted the French revolutionary attack upon the Tuilleries; dealt with Louis XVII's abortive flight to Varennes, and gave the name of the innkeeper who arrested the king. He predicted the defeat of Napoleon III. at Sedan. There latter prophecies were made more than 200 and 300 years before they were fulfilled.

PA AND MA CAME WITH HER

Eddie Foy's Story of the Panama,
the Girl and the Young Clerk.

Eddie Foy, at the Lamb club gambol in New York, told a panama hat story.

"A young clerk out my way," he said, "gave his girl a present of a panama last year. Then, the day before the Fourth, he got a couple of complimentaries for a picnic, clam-bake and corn roast down the river, and he wired the girl:

"Meet me at pier 13 tomorrow morning at 7. Picnic. Bring panama."

"The next morning as he stood on pier 13 dreaming dreams of love, imagining a long, sweet day of billing and cooing, he saw his girl advancing with her father and mother.
He was terribly annoyed, and on the boat, as soon as he could get her alone, he hissed:

"What did you want to bring the old folks for?"

"Why, Will, you told me to!"
she said, and she showed him the telegram, which the operator had made to read:

"Bring pa and ma."

CHILDREN AND SNOBBISHNESS.

All children are so snobbish as they know how to be; and I fancy that the child's perennial delight in fairy tales is not due solely to the epic instinct. One is interested in princes and princesses, when one is eight, simply because they are princes and princesses. Of royalty, one is perfectly sure. I have never known a child who did not prefer the goose-girl to be a princess in disguise, or who felt any real sympathy with the princess who was only a disguised goose-girl. You do not have to expound the divine right to any one under twelve. Peasants are an acquired taste; and Socialism is an illusion of age.—Katherine F.
Gerould, in the Atlantic.

WOMEN DO THE WORK.

Of the natives in Papua a traveler says: "When the natives are young they are quick to learn, and can be taught almost any kind of work, and even up to the time of their marriage they are willing to learn. After marriage their ambition and intellectual development appear to cease; one of the reasons for this seems to be that the woman does most of the work, while the man, being the superior animal—can see no necessity for further exertion. He plays the part of her protector to perfection; while she digs in the garden he leans against a tree with his spear in his hand, apparently prepared to keep off intruders, but really because it is easier than doing the digging."

HABITUAL PHRASEOLOGY.

"Bliggins can't get away from his weather talk," said the critical friend.

"Does he ask if it is hot enough for you?"

"No. But at dinner, when the waiter spilled a cup of tea down his neck, he said he didn't know which was more objectionable, the heat or the humidity."

An Inevitable Step.

When Pasteur laid the foundation of bacteriology, he not only made a vast contribution to health, but he necessarily had a great although indirect effect on our social ideas. Our conceptions of the liberty of the individual and of his relation to society have been much changed by the germ theory of disease. The public drinking cup is a conspicuous illustration, as it is being made illegal in a rapidly increasing number of places. The roller towel is likely to be the next offender to go. It requires very little imagination to picture what goes on through this channel in the transfer of dirt and germs from one person to another. The movement to abolish it is newer than the drinking-cup movement, but rests on fully as sound a foundation, and in the end must inevitably succeed.

The Earl Gilchrist Case.

A good deal of attention has been attracted by the story published widely in the newspapers that a fifteen-year-old boy is to be executed for murder in Arkansas.
The whole subject of capital punishment is certainly on trial at present, but the facts in this case are not quite so definite as they were made out. In the first place it is a mistake to suppose that the case has been before the Governor.
When the conviction was had in the lower court an appeal was prayed for and granted to the Supreme Court, in which tribunal it is now pending. Hence all the thousands of letters sent to the Governor were based on a misunderstanding. If the Supreme Court affirms the judgment of the Circuit Court, it will still be several months before the matter can come before the Governor. The trial judge in Arkansas has no discretion. If the jury finds murder in the first degree, the judge must fix the punishment as hanging.
Whatever the wisdom of that law, it is well to remember that the testimony of the defense concerning age was not contradicted.

The murderer may have been a little under sixteen, or considerably older. He is a little less than six feet in height and weighs about one hundred and sixty-five pounds. Capital punishment deserves full discussion, but it is better to discuss it without regard to a single case in which a good deal of feeling has been worked up.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken inand mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting

Yes, WE CUT THE PRICE

Some merchants have tried to to stir up a revolution because we cut $22.50 and $20 suits and overcoats to

They tried to start a feeling that would injure our business because we want you, the buying public, to have your money's worth and the benefit of our good purchases. Did you ever hear such argument?

What does the public care for business sentiment? The trade that we know, who pay for what they get, want their money's worth and not confidential talks. Just look at every $22.50 suit in town, then see ours for $15 and you'll see better make, cloth, fit, style, and you will see what makes other stores hollow cuch.
